

Columbus Fair Auto Auction Hosts Jack Hanna in the Lanes

Columbus, OH – As a part of its Employee Appreciation Day, Columbus Fair Auto Auction (CFAA) hosted the Columbus Zoo’s Director Emeritus Jack Hanna in its lanes on Wednesday, May 30th.

The event marks the third year in a row that CFAA has hosted Hanna along with animals from the Columbus Zoo. Jack made his way through each of the lanes and up onto the blocks proving no jungle is too wild for him! Employees and buyers were able to get their pictures taken with Jack and the animals and then receive the printed photo. This year’s animals included a kangaroo, always a crowd favorite, tree sloth, penguin, and crocodile.

In addition, a fully restored 1969 Camaro, known as “Jack’s Wild Ride” was on site and buyers at the auction were eligible to receive raffle tickets based on the number of cars bought. Raffle tickets could also be purchased for the Camaro, which is scheduled to be raffled off at Zoofari, the zoo’s annual fundraising event to benefit conservation efforts around the world, on June 16th.

The day was capped off with an employee lunch, from the outside grill area, where employees could come by and pick up their lunch or sit down at the picnic tables and enjoy the sunny weather. “It’s always great to be able to thank our employees and our commercial and dealer partners,” said Greg Levi, CFAA President and COO. “But the opportunity to have Jack Hanna here and help raise money for the Columbus Zoo’s conservation efforts is a real added bonus.”

(L to R): Columbus Fair Auto Auction Chief Executive Officer, Alexis Jacobs; Jack Hanna, and Columbus Fair Auto Auction Human Resources, Sandy Levi.